

Florida Council Against Sexual Violence Membership and Donation Form

The work of FCASV is guided by members from across the state. Our members are individuals and agencies who are concerned about sexual violence survivors. They represent the many people who work together to meet the needs of sexual violence victims, including counselors, crisis center staff, law enforcement officers, criminal justice professionals, medical professionals, allied service providers and other concerned citizens.

Members have access to FCASV's resources, receive our quarterly newsletter and qualify for discounted training opportunities. Most importantly, our members have a powerful effect by joining together with other concerned people throughout Florida who are working to lessen the impact of sexual violence. Together we create change, improve services for victims and increase the safety and well-being of our communities.
